Jackpot! GLI® Stays in Jeffco and Relocates to the City of Wheat Ridge

Wheat Ridge, Colo., September 11, 2014 -Gaming Laboratories International (GLI®) announced that it will be staying in Jefferson County and relocating its Western regional office from the City of Golden to the City of Wheat Ridge. The company plans to move to a 40,000 square-foot office facility located at 4720 Independence Street.

New to the City of Wheat Ridge, the move retains 100 high-paying jobs in Jefferson County. GLI is a world leader in providing independent testing, inspection and certification services to the gaming, wagering and lottery industry.

“GLI has a long history in Jefferson County. We first opened a Colorado facility in the county in 1995, and we have enjoyed a successful relationship with the County, the State and regulators and operators ever since. We are very pleased to announce our decision to stay in the county, and we look forward to many more years of successful cooperation,” said Dave Daniels, Sr. Director of Engineering for GLI and General Manager of the Colorado laboratory.

“We are excited to have an employer with 25 years of history plant new roots in Wheat Ridge,” said Wheat Ridge Mayor Joyce Jay. “Landing an employer of GLI’s caliber will not only add to the city’s economic base, but will demonstrate to other companies that Wheat Ridge is a great option when considering where to locate a corporate headquarters.”

The City of Wheat Ridge and Jefferson County Economic Development Corporation (Jeffco EDC) worked in partnership with GLI on the project. “GLI has been an important part of Jefferson County’s business environment for the last twenty years, and we feel fortunate to have them in our community. We are thrilled about GLI’s announcement to stay in Jefferson County and retain 100 high-paying primary jobs, and are well positioned to help them grow”, said Rob Osborn, Jeffco EDC’s Board Chair.

GLI plans to move into their new facility later in the year.
